First Impressions:
Think about each of the following situations. What are your first impressions? Write two or more paragraphs for each.

1. You are applying for a job. A male receptionist ushers you into an office where you are greeted by a female vice president who will conduct the interview.

2. You are introduced to a new couple in the neighborhood and discover the man stays home all day with two small children while the wife works outside the home.

3. You are African American and live in a neighborhood that is all Caucasian.

4. You are temporarily disabled, must use a wheelchair, and have found a wonderful job opening. You haven't yet told the interviewer about your disability and the room is located on the second floor, with no elevator.

5. You arrive at your new dentist's office and find she has green and orange spiked hair.

6. You go to court and find every jury member is African-American and you are Caucasian.

7. You go on a job interview and find yourself facing a panel of younger men and women.
