Career Corner: Dining for Success!

Calling all seniors! Did you know that bread is broken, not cut; that the sorbet is the course used to cleanse the palate; and that there is a right and a wrong way to hold your flatware? Proper dining etiquette is essential for success in the business world. Attend the Dining for Success program on Tuesday, February 22 from 6:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. in the Russell Union ballroom to learn the rules associated with dining etiquette.

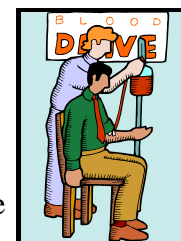

Pre-Registration is required. To register, come by Career Services to complete the registration form and turn in a $20 refundable deposit. All forms and checks are due to Career Services no later than February 4 at NOON! First come, first served.

Please call Career Services at 681-5197 or visit <http://students.georgiasouthern.edu/career/> for more information.

Blood Drive on Wednesday

The College of Business Administration, AMA and the American Red Cross are sponsoring a blood drive on Wednesday, Jan. 26, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Williams Center. All participants are asked to bring identification with proof of age. The goal is 100 units. To make an appointment, call Carol Jennings at 681-5050.

Residence Hall Organization Wins National Award!

Georgia Southern's chapter of the National Residence Hall Honorary (NRHH), which is made up of the top one percent of residence hall student leaders, was recently recognized as the national chapter of the month. Among their (many!) activities for the month of November were a number of community service projects, recognition for housekeepers and maintenance staffs, and creation of a new website. Congratulations, NRHH!

Spotlight On . . . Ms. Amy Anderson

Ms. Amy Anderson is the Minority Advisement Coordinator. She coordinates the Minority Advisement Program (MAP) for incoming first-year and transfer students here at Georgia Southern. Ms. Anderson also presents several diversity presentations across campus. She has been at Georgia Southern for a year and a half. Ms. Anderson received her bachelor's degree from Mercer University in Communications and Theatre and minored in Political Science, Criminal Justice, and African-American studies. She is currently pursuing a master's degree in Higher Education Administration here at Georgia Southern. Ms. Anderson began working in student affairs as a MAP mentor. She says that she enjoys her job because she likes working with students and planning programs. In her spare time, Ms. Anderson enjoys reading, watching movies, shopping and talking on the phone to her friends and family. Ms. Anderson's advice to students is to "Go to class and get to know your professors because that could be the difference between a passing and failing grade." Lastly, Ms. Anderson advises students to remember that, "Your reputation is one of your most valuable possessions, so please don't ruin it."

Ronald E. McNair Program

The Ronald E. McNair Post-Baccalaureate Achievement Program in the Office of Educational Opportunity Programs is seeking talented undergraduate students and faculty mentors.

The McNair Program seeks to increase graduate degree attainment for students from segments of society that are underrepresented in certain academic disciplines. It prepares participants for doctoral study through involvement in research and other activities. Students receive a stipend for successful completion of a summer research experience, receive mentoring from a faculty member, attend seminars, participate in summer internships, and receive academic counseling and assistance to secure financial aid for enrolling in graduate programs.

For more information contact Mary Woods at 912-681-5458 or email her at mwoods@georgiasouthern.edu.
